

$37,142 Realized From Art Sale at Anderson Galleries

Small Persian Rug Sells for $1,750 at Closing Session; 6 Painted Flemish
Panels Bought for $1,250

The sale of art furniture, which came to a close yesterday at the Anderson galleries and during which valuable objects from the collections of Mrs. Arthur F. MacArthur and others of this city were auctioned, realized a total of $37,142.50. A small Persian rug and a group of six painted Flemish panels brought highest prices of the sale, the former being acquired by Miss Ruth Tschetter for $1,750 and the latter by E. F. Lawrence for $1,250. The afternoon session brought $22,338. The rugs of the Herat design, coming from the sixteenth century, measured only 6 feet 7 inches by 4 feet 5 inches, a specimen remarkable for its composition, done with a center of red ground, decorated in symmetrical arrangement of peony palmettes in blue green and yellow and having a blue-green border with the flowers in yellow, pink and blue. The Flemish panels, taken from the Castle Pau, near Amsterdam, and of various shapes and sizes, represented subjects in the manner of Teniers, peasants regaling on the banks of a stream, figures on horseback, peasants dancing to the music of a piper, fishermen and fisherfolk. The panels are attributed to Van der Vinne, a Dutch decorative painter. E. F. Lawrence also paid $925 for the set of four bronze figures, "The Seasons," in the manner of Clodion from the French of the eighteenth century. The group comprises draped classical female figures supported by cupids. A pair of important Waterford glass candelabra on Wedgewood bases was acquired by A. French for $510. E. F. Lawrence also obtained for $500 a fine pair of Waterford crystal lustres in square Wedgewood bases, and Jacob Ruppert was the top bidder on the original William and Mary period English needlework wing-back armchair, for which $410 was paid.

ANTIQUES—FINE FURNITURE—OBJETS D'ART

New Antiques, Coming In, Force These Out at Unworthy Prices

It hurts the artist side of us to put such low markings on pieces like these. They are really beyond price. For there are few in the world like them. And, of course, no more are being made. But the business side of us insists. The stream must flow on to the sea, and make way for the water still to come down.

A Few Instances:

Chippendale Chairs

Six Chippendale, ribbon-back chairs, as perfectly united as if the wood of each had grown into its present form. The seats have the original coverings of embossed velours, which perfectly match the dark tone of the mahogany. The set—

Racial Melting Pot Glorified In Pageant

'America's Making' Show at 71st Regiment Armory Is Opened by Gov. Miller in Presence of Big Crowd

Indian Heads Procession

Forefathers of National Existence Are Followed by Every Immigrant Factor

The "America's Making" Exposition, designed to depict not so much what this country has done for the immigrant as what the thirty-two racial elements have contributed to its formation, was formally opened at the 71st Regiment Armory last night in an outburst of pageantry and song.

The big crowd was welcomed to the festival by Governor Nathan L. Miller, who, in the course of his speech, said that while "some have thought that this melting pot has boiled over," it will be demonstrated that "it is still possible to fuse the best of all races of the world to make our great America."

He hoped the exposition would eliminate racial lines and bring about a general linking of the east and west coasts of South America with South America, Liverpool and New York. This has been accomplished in recent years by a combination of the P. S. N. C. and the Royal Mail.

Golf Prizes Awarded At Sleepy Hollow Club

200 Members Attend Annual Halloween Dinner Dance;
Finley J. Shepard Presides

Two hundred members of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club attended the annual Halloween dinner dance of the club last night. Finley J. Shepard, president, was toastmaster.

Following the golf trophies of the year were presented to the winners of the various tournaments under the auspices of the club. H. O. Latham received the golf committee cup, A. L. Babcock the tournament trophy, and Scott Stewart the governors' cup. Prizes were given to H. O. Latham and M. A. Noble, winners of the four-ball foursome of July.

The trophy cup was won by J. C. McDonald, the prize for handicap against par was won by M. B. Starring Jr., and the prizes for the four-ball foursome of Columbus Day were won by Andrew Mills Jr. and George D. Francis.

Club championship medals were given to M. B. Starring Jr., winner of the club championship tournament, and H. O. Latham, the runner-up. A handicap tournament was held on the club course yesterday afternoon and was won by T. M. Taylor.

Expert Eyes to Inspect New York Health Centers

Tightseeing tours to health centers in and near New York City have been arranged as part of the semi-centennial celebration of the American Public Health Association, which takes place from November 1 to 10.

The week preceding the convention will be devoted by several hundred delegates to a series of visits to hospitals, laboratories, public welfare institutions and kindred places, which include public officials, physicians, nurses, social workers, laboratory workers and heads of charitable institutions.

Headquarters for the Health Institute are at the Hotel Astor, where Dr. William A. Evans, as chairman and Dr. D. B. Armstrong, of the National Health Council, director.

The sessions of the fiftieth annual meeting of the American Public Health Association will be held in the Hotel Astor, while at the same time the National Health Council will hold its annual convention at the Grand Central Palace.

Many U. S. Ships Useless

Under-Production of 2,250,000 Tons Since '14; Must Be Replaced, Says Ballard

That world shipping is still behind ordinary requirements despite the fact that millions of tons lie idle in all ports, is the statement made by Maxwell Ballard, a British marine writer. The point of his argument is that a large part of the fleets of all nations, with the possible exception of the United States, is made up of vessels which should have been scrapped long ago and

America Leads Nations In Oil Tank Tonnage

Three-fourths of Gain Since 1914 Has Been Due to Building
in Domestic Yards

The United States now possesses 63 per cent more oil tanker tonnage than Great Britain, the nearest competitor, according to a table compiled by the Bureau of Navigation. In 1914 there were only 55 steam tankers, aggregating 201,000 gross tons, flying the American flag. Seven years later this number had increased to 356, of 2,121,000 gross tons. Seventy-six per cent of the increase in tankers throughout the world is due to building in American yards.

This rapid development has been caused in part by war conditions and also by increasing dependence of the United States upon Mexico for oil. In 1914 this country imported 3,100,000 barrels of oil, and in 1920, 105,600,000 barrels.

In addition to steam and gas tankers, there are in the oil-carrying service 91 sailing and barge vessels of 139,000 gross tons.

The comparative amounts of merchant steam and gas tanker tonnage accredited to the leading countries on June 30, for 1914 and 1921, are shown in the following table:

1,000 Boy Scouts Kneel At Grave of Roosevelt

Silent Prayer and Eulogies
Mark Pilgrimage to Oyster
Bay; Drop 50 Wreaths

More than 1,000 Boy Scouts made their second annual pilgrimage to the grave of Theodore Roosevelt, in Oyster Bay, yesterday and knelt in silent prayer beside it, after decorating it with fifty wreaths and listening to speeches eulogizing the former honorary president of their organization.

The boys came from Long Island, Manhattan and New Jersey. Daniel Board marched at their head and they made their way to Young's Memorial Cemetery. Members of the Camp Fire Club of America marched with them.

Edward Seymour, William Bogart and Dr. Joseph E. Root, of Hartford, Conn., wore suits made of buckskin. Dr. Charles E. Eastman, an Indian, wore a Sioux costume, the feathers of which trailed from his head to the ground.

Mr. Board spoke of the pride with which Colonel Roosevelt had accepted his honorary post with the scouts, said he was a true American and a true scout and asked the boys to follow his example. Dr. Eastman said Colonel Roosevelt was a red-blooded American and that his memory was immortal.

Fifty boys had been selected to drop the wreaths on the grave. When this had been done a bugler sounded taps and then everybody knelt.

John C. Hazen Is Dead

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE TRIBUNE
MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Oct. 29.—John Cunningham Hazen, eighty-four years old, for thirty-two years a prominent resident of Pelham Manor, died last night at his home at 631 Esplanade, in that village, from old age, on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Hazen was born in Ithaca, where his parents were among those instrumental in founding Cornell University. For a number of years Mr. Hazen was connected with the Produce Exchange at Buffalo and in 1889 he moved to Pelham Manor. During that year his wife established in that village the Pelham Hall School for girls, which was widely known as the Hazen School. Mr. Hazen was a Civil War veteran, senior warden in the Church of the Redeemer and had served as Street Commissioner of Pelham Manor. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. William Twells Tiers.
